DROWNED WHILE ASLEEP

Fearful Collision Between Two Italian Passenger Steamers.

HUNDRED AND FIFTY-EIGHT LOST.

The Steamer Ortigia Crashes Into the Maria P. and the Latter Vessel Sank in Three Minutes—Only Twenty-Eight Persons Survived the Disaster.

GENOA, July 22.—The Italian steamers Ortigia and Maria P. collided off the Gulf of Genoa at the entrance of the Gulf of Genoa. The latter sank and 113 passengers were drowned.

The Maria P. was bound from Naples to La Plata. There was a crew of seventeen at the passengers numbered 173. She was sailing here on route to her destination. She was entering the Gulf of Genoa at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning, when she met the Ortigia, outward bound. They only noticed each other when a collision was inevitable.

The blow of the Ortigia crashed into the starboard side of the Maria P., penetrating six yards, and ripping up the Maria P. through the hole, and the Maria P. sank in three minutes.

The majority of the passengers were asleep at the time of the accident, and had no time to escape after the alarm was given. They were engulfed with the vessel. The Ortigia remained on the spot until 6 o'clock in order to pick up the survivors. She rescued fourteen of the crew and twenty-eight of the passengers of the Maria P. Other steamers have been dispatched to the scene of the disaster, and are now searching for further survivors.

The Ortigia's bow was smashed for a space of twelve feet along the water line. There is some comment upon the fact brought to mind by the disaster that the Ortigia once collided on the same spot with the French steamer Uncle Joseph.

At the conclusion of the sitting of the chamber yesterday afternoon, the minister of marine announced the news of the disaster in the midst of a profound sensation, adding that an officer, a seaman, stoker and 144 passengers of the Maria P. had perished.

The Ortigia had twenty-five passengers on board. The Maria P.'s captain was named Ferrara.

A passenger named Batena, a jeweler, was on board with his wife and three young children. He said that he had not turned in when the collision occurred. He seized two of the children, and his wife caught up the third, and they ran upon deck and jumped into the sea. The children swam like ducks, and he sank after a hard struggle. When he came to the surface his children had disappeared. His wife had managed to cling to a piece of wreckage till the Ortigia's boat saved her. They lost everything.

Second Officer D'Angelo, of the Maria P., who was on watch on that ship when she was struck by the Ortigia, was drowned. Among the saved is a child of 3 years, who is the only survivor of a family of seven who went down with the ill-fated ship.

Strangled as He Slept.
LANCASTER, Pa., July 22.—Adam Kaylor, who was a resident of Mount Joy, came to his death in a singular fashion. With his body stretched out on a baggage truck in the Pennsylvania railroad station, but with his head hanging down, Kaylor slowly strangled. He had laid down on the railroad track near the station to sleep. He would have been cut to pieces by the cars had not several young men found him about midnight and carefully placed him on the baggage truck.

The English Elections.
LONDON, July 22.—As a result of the pollings thus far held in the general elections the Unionists now show a net gain of 68, giving the government a majority of 108. The districts to be heard from during the coming week are almost entirely by the counties and the shires. The number yet to be heard from is 109. The majority of these were represented by Liberals in the last parliament.

FOUR KILLED AT A CROSSING.

Terrible Accident to a Party of Men Near Williamstown, Mass.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 22.—Four men were instantly killed, while crossing the Fitchburg railroad track, about two miles from the place, yesterday afternoon. A party of six men were riding in a two-seated covered carriage. They were en route to North Adams from Bennington, and were struck by a west-bound express. Two of the men, Clarence Prindle and Edward White, both of Williamstown, escaped by jumping. The killed were: Oliver Dudley, Nelson Trudeau, Peter Roake and Joseph Taylor, all of North Adams.

As the men approached the crossing a freight train was passing eastward. They waited until the caboose of the freight train had gone by and then started to proceed, apparently not seeing the west-bound train, which was advancing at express speed. The carriage was directly across the tracks when the engine struck it. Prindle and White, catching a glimpse of the oncoming train, had just time to throw and jump, thereby saving their lives. The other man, with the carriage and one of the horses, was hurled into the air and came down in an indescribable heap.

Dudley was the only one who breathed after the accident, and he expired after a few brief gasps. The others lay in a quivering mass among the broken and twisted remnants of the carriage. The mangled carcass of the horse lay a little to one side, while beside it, and attached to it by the harness, stood its mate uninjured.

As soon as possible the train was stopped and several people rushed to the scene. The bodies were taken out from among the wreckage and borne to the baggage car, and thence to the Port of the station, half a mile beyond. It is stated that both engineers whistled and rang the bell at the proper distance from the crossing, but that these signals were either unheard or disregarded by the men in the carriage.

DEFENDER AND VIGILANT.

The Latter Will Make Another Effort to Defeat the New Tacht.

NEW YORK, July 22.—When the Vigilant meets the Defender over a triangular course of thirty miles outside of Sandy Hook this afternoon she will carry a larger club to sail than that under which she appeared on Saturday, when the Defender defeated her by a 1-2 score. In a thirty-mile race to the westward and toward the south, she will also have a larger hull, a larger sail, and it is fair to presume that the sail area added by these changes will assist her little in securing the yacht won on Saturday. Believers in her ability to beat the new boat in light weather are, however, few in number, even though she carry additional canvas.

Nobody knows definitely what the Defender can do in a strong wind. It is believed that she can at least equal Valkyrie III, which boat was plainly built for light weather. Mr. Iselin and Captain Haff have no fear of the result in a hard wind, but the public wants to know with certainty that the keel vessel is an all-around boat. If it could be possible to judge from Saturday's performance, it might be said that she is all right, for in the breeze that did prevail the Defender stood up straighter than the Vigilant, and increased her lead in proportion to the strengthening of the wind.

Mr. Willard, who has charge of the Vigilant, was willing to admit today that his boat was outclassed on Saturday, but he holds the opinion that he will give the new boat a closer race. All the sailors who have hitherto been insistent that the centerboard model was superior to the keel are very modest in their assertions today. They point the fact that never before was a centerboard beaten by a keel, and declare that there must be further test before they will confess defeat. They have dropped their boastful manner, and are only preparing a gentle fall for themselves to the theory that the fin keel, or "compro-mise," as they call it, is the proper thing, after all.

Alleged Burglars Break Jail.

MIDDLETOWN, Pa., July 22.—Frank Evans and Joseph West, claiming to be respectively from Philadelphia and Chicago, who are charged with the Hertzler burglary at Port Royal last April, broke jail yesterday and have not been recaptured. They saved off the window bars and used the bed clothes for ropes by which to reach the pavement. Parker, the third member of the gang, made a desperate attempt to escape during the confusion following the discovery, but he was subdued. A supposed confederate of the fugitives was arrested and imprisoned. The robbery of Noah Hertzler's store occurred on the morning of April 25. The safe was blown open and one and securities aggregating over $30,000 in value were taken.

Seriously Injured at a Fire.

GUTTENBERG, N. J., July 22.—Three houses and a hotel, owned by Mrs. Caroline Assmus, were badly damaged by fire, and the occupants had a narrow escape for their lives. As it was, several were injured. Mrs. Kull, wife of Frederick Kull, a baker, who occupied one of the houses, leaped from a window to escape the flames, and was probably fatally injured. One of Kull's sons, who also jumped from a window, was also very seriously injured. It is thought internally. A little girl, who was staying with Mrs. Assmus, in attempting to escape fell down a flight of stairs, and was found in an unconscious condition.

Married on His Deathbed.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 22.—Years ago Miss Katherine Kilpatrick loaned to John T. Walker a sum of money to go into the shoe business. Walker prospered on the money, and now, in his 63d year, is the proprietor of an establishment on East Third street, and is worth $10,000. Walker was not ungrateful to his benefactress, and as the years passed the friendship ripened into a warmer feeling, and Saturday night, as he lay on his deathbed, he was married to the girl whom he had frequently named as his prospective heir. The relatives of Mr. Walker are said to be strongly opposed to the union.

CINCINNATI'S SENSATION

The Remarkable Story Told by a Hospital Patient.

HER BODY FILLED WITH NEEDLES.

She Had Forced Them Into Her Legs and Feet While an Occupant of a Convent, as Punishment for Offenses Committed. Her Condition Critical.

CINCINNATI, July 22.—A well-dressed lady applied at the Cincinnati Hospital for admission Saturday afternoon. She presented a letter from the mother superior of the convent where the young lady had resided. The letter said the bearer, Miss Nellie Thomas, had been employed at the convent for some time, and was suffering from swollen legs and feet. Nothing except the symptoms referred to in the letter was found on the preliminary examination, but later it was decided to lance the feet, when it was found the limbs and feet were imbedded with pins and needles. Forty-one needles were extracted from her body, and she was not able to rest after the operation. The physician, when ten more were extracted, and it is thought others will be found. The physician fear blood poisoning will set in, and that the case in any event may prove hopeless.

The girl protested till after the operation that she could not tell how her feet and limbs became imbedded with these needles, but finally she said that she had been at the Convent of the Good Shepherd for several years. She was an orphan, and there she had lived. During her stay there she had done wrong—not once alone, but persistently. She had done that which she knew was not right, and for every sin she had committed she had done penance by thrusting a needle into one of her legs. She explained that each operation had caused her agonizing pain, and that at times was almost unbearable, but she felt that she must bear the pain as a recompense for the sin committed.

This mode of doing penance, she said, had lasted more than two years. Her wrong-doing had been of frequent occurrence, and she was unable to estimate the number of needles she had placed in her limbs. She said she and another girl in the convent had become unnaturally infatuated with each other. They had acted as lovers, and had together sinned against God and nature. She said she had confessed to a priest at the convent, who was greatly shocked at the confession she made. The sisters were greatly surprised at the statement made by the girl, and could not understand how such conditions could have existed in the institution without their knowledge. They made no attempt to deny the story, but were no doubt in ignorance of such relations existing between any persons.

Sister Superior Mary Malone stated that the outcome of the examination of Miss Thomas was a startling revelation to her. She had been aware of the condition of the patient's legs and feet for several months, but had no idea of the cause. On Saturday Miss Thomas' limbs were so swollen and her condition so serious that the mother superior insisted upon her going to the hospital. As to that portion of her story regarding Miss Thomas' infatuation and intimacy with another female in the convent, Sister Malone declared she knew nothing of it, and was surprised and shocked beyond measure.

Miss Nellie is able to talk, but is very weak and suffering intense pain.

Another Alleged Filibusterer.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The single screw steamer Canea cleared this port for sea yesterday afternoon, bound on what is believed to be a Cuban filibustering expedition. She flew the flag of the United States of Colombia at the peak and the French flag at the stern. She is commanded by Captain Burroughs. The supposition is that she will lay to somewhere between this and one of the Cuban ports and take on men and crews.

Wanted to Lynch the Empire.

QUINCY, Ill., July 22.—After the baseball game yesterday the crowd made an attempt to lynch Empire Frank Heath, of Quincy, Ill., and was only prevented by the police and sheriff. The latter being backed up by a posse. It was claimed that the umpire had robbed the Quincy nine of yesterday and Saturday's games. He was roughly handled before the officers could get him away from the crowd.

Another Victim of the Erisson.

NEW LONDON, July 22.—The second fatality resulting from the accident that happened on the torpedo boat Erisson last week, occurred when David Cody died yesterday morning. His parents, who reside in Worcester, Mass., were with him when death came. His home was in Jersey City, where he leaves a widow and no child.

Killed by a Balky Horse.

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—A horse attached to a carriage containing an unknown woman became unmanageable near the popular street entrance to Fairmount park last evening, and, dashing into the footpath, struck down Edward Scollin, aged 30 years, and his sister Nellie, aged 16, who were walking with their parents. The boy died almost immediately in his father's arms, and the other child is lying fatally injured at a hospital. Joseph Scollin, the father, fell fainting with the corpse of his child in his arms, and it is feared that the mother will become insane from grief. In the excitement following the accident the team disappeared.

A Connecticut Bank Goes Wrong.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., July 22.—Bank Commissioner Croft created a sensation last night when he announced that from discoveries made since his examination of the Dime Savings Bank a week ago the institution is insolvent by at least $30,000, and in no way to be done but to close the bank at once. John Walden, who for fifteen years was cashier of the bank, resigned last Wednesday at the request of the corporation and has not been seen since Friday.

TERRIBLE BUTCHERY.

A Brutal Murderer Kills Three and Fatally Wounds Four Others.

NEW ORLEANS, July 22.—Last Friday night, on the Terre Haute plantation, in St. John's parish, a terrible butchery of human beings took place. While Rosario Giordano and his family were seated at the supper table Joe Noska walked up the door, and leveling a double-barreled shot gun, fired. Mrs. Giordano fell to the floor a corpse, and the bullets that did not go through her went through both legs and the head of the 4-months-old infant she held in her arms. Giordano, fearing that the tender babe would be killed in the fall, sprang forward to clasp it, and the assassin then fired again. The bullets entered the groin and leg of Giordano. The 10-year-old girl, on seeing her mother fall, ran forward and received a portion of the load of buckshot that struck her father. The shot entered her abdomen, literally tearing it to pieces. At the same time little Nicolina, 10 years old, fell to the floor, wounded through the head.

The assassin did not move from the spot, but when he saw Beneditto Giordano, a nephew of the dead woman, and Charley Columbo coming toward him he coolly placed two fresh shells in his gun and waited until they got very close to him. Then he raised the gun and fired both barrels, the two men falling to the ground dead. The murderer, throwing his gun over his shoulder, made his escape to the woods. Citizens are in pursuit of the murderer.

TRAGEDIES AT A PICNIC.

A Row Results in the Probable Death of Three Persons.

GALLATIN, Tenn., July 22.—One of the bloodiest tragedies ever witnessed in this county took place on Saturday at a picnic in the northern part of this county. Three persons lost their lives. West Dixon, of the place, took his wife, who is said to be a woman of bad character, to the picnic, and soon a fuss arose about her, which was quieted, and Dixon and his wife took a seat in a wagon. As William Davidson, a man some 60 years of age, was passing by the wagon Dixon drew his pistol and without a moment's warning shot him through the head, killing him on the spot. He and his wife broke to run, and a crowd of Davidson's friends started in pursuit, firing at them at every opportunity. Finally Dixon fell, mortally wounded. His wife was also shot twice, being fatally wounded.

Dixon is a man of very bad character, having killed three men, one a deputy sheriff at Frankfort, Ky. Davidson was also a man with a record. He killed the sheriff of Robertson county several years ago.

Brutal Mississippi Negroes.

PURVIS, Miss., July 22.—About 9 p. m. a terrible tragedy was enacted at the home of A. D. Hartfield, a highly respected and prosperous farmer who lives about five miles east of this place. Mr. Hartfield being absent his two daughters, aged 14 and 16 years, went out the evening to turn out the calves. Mrs. Hartfield, who remained in the house, heard the girls scream and started to where they were, but she was shot down by a negro. She was not seriously hurt, however, and managed to give the alarm. Upon returning to the house the two girls were found lying in the cow-pen unconscious. One of them recovered sufficiently to state that they were attacked by two negroes with a hatchet. One of the girls is badly injured, and will die. Mrs. Hartfield was shot three times, but will probably recover. Robbery is supposed to be the motive of the crime.

Ran Down by a Ferryboat.

BROOKLYN, July 22.—As the Twenty-third street ferryboat to New York was nearing the Broadway slip the yacht Maggie was struck and capsized. John McMahon, of 230 Broadway, was drowned. Charles O'Connor and John Williams were quite seriously injured.

Another Sunday Bather Drowned.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 22.—Clayde Yenish, aged 14 years, was drowned while bathing with a number of companions in the Conestogaw yesterday afternoon. The body was recovered. Yenish was subject to epileptic fits, and it is supposed was seized by one of these while in the water.

Poison in the River Water.

Drowned at Stoverdale.

HUNNELSTOWN, Pa., July 22.—Harry Breneman, aged 17 years, was seized with cramp while bathing at Stoverdale yesterday afternoon and was drowned. The body was recovered.

Disgusted with Prince Ferdinand.

LONDON, July 22.—A correspondent of The Standard at Carlsbad says that the conduct of Prince Ferdinand, since the murder of Stambouloff, has caused much scandal. "He feels, or affects," the correspondent continues, "a gravity which is simply revolting under the circumstances, so that the indignation of the public here threatens to find unmistakable expression. He is reported already to have been hissed by a crowd of Carlsbad visitors."

Durant Claims an Alibi.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 22.—Interest in the horrible Emanuel Church murder, which shocked the whole world, was revived today, when the trial of Theodore Durant was commenced. Durant and his attorneys say that on alibi can be proved that he did not commit the crime.

HOLMES, THE ARCH FIEND

He Is Suspected of Still Another Double Murder.

BRUTALITY WITHOUT PARALLEL.

The Mysterious Disappearance of Mrs. I. L. Connor and Her Child, Together with Her Relations with Holmes, Leads to the Belief that He Killed Them.

CHICAGO, July 22.—A local paper says: To the long list of murders and other crimes directly traced to the arch fiend, H. H. Holmes, must now be added the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. I. L. Connor and her 12-year-old daughter, with a reasonable certainty that they may have been disposed of in the same manner in which the rest of his victims met their death. Mrs. Connor and her child were last seen in the company of Holmes in this city in 1893.

Since then all trace of them has been lost, and the shrewdest of detectives, at the instigation of the woman's family, who have been working on the case, are now of the opinion that the finding of their bodies is the only possible solution of the mystery. There are circumstances which, while at first seemingly susceptible of explanation, now point in the direction of another double murder at the hands of the greatest villain of modern times.

Mrs. Connor came originally from Dayton, O., where she was married to I. L. Connor, a jeweler, nearly fifteen years ago, probably in 1880, when she was about 18, though the exact time is unknown. To them a child was born, and in 1889 Connor and his wife and girl, then 7 or 8 years of age, came to Chicago. Holmes at that time was just beginning to frame the swindles for which he later became notorious, and had started a drug and jewelry store in Englewood. Connor went to work for Holmes, and moved his family into a flat over the store.

It was not long after this until Connor became aware that the relations between his wife and Holmes were not of a nature consistent with the law of society. Before long Mrs. Connor and the child disappeared, and no trace of them has since been found.

It is the intention of the Chicago police to make every effort to have H. H. Holmes, the insurance swindler, brought here to answer the charge of having murdered the Williams sisters. The local officers are convinced that the murder of the Williams girls was the first committed by Holmes, and they argue that in consequence he should be required to stand trial for it first. They also insist that they will be able to produce evidence that he did murder the sisters. The police are by no means convinced that the analysis made by a doctor on Saturday that the substance found in the big stove in Holmes' old office was fire clay and not human bones. They say that fire clay would not become brittle in any kind of heat, whereas a portion of that found in the stove crumbled in the hands of Detective Fitzpatrick.

It developed yesterday that the substance on which the first report of the finding of the bones of Minnie Williams was hinged was in the hands of Detective Geyer, of Philadelphia. It was said that he visited Chicago a week ago, and when he left carried with him positive proof that a body had been burned in the big stove in Holmes' office. It was also learned that Detective Geyer would come to Chicago after he completed his search for the remains of Howard Pitzel in Detroit, and will co-operate with the Chicago officers in whatever may be done hereafter.

In police circles it was said today that the only hope of convicting Holmes was in Chicago. It was said that the Philadelphia authorities could convict him of nothing more serious than insurance swindling, and that the Canadian authorities would not go to the expense of extraditing and trying him. In the event that Detective Geyer fails to locate the body of Howard Pitzel in Detroit, everything will depend on the work of the Chicago police.

Father and Son Electrocutted.

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—Two men, father and son, were electrocuted by "live" electric light wires belonging to the Kensington Electric Light company on Saturday in the yard of the wheelwright shop at Nos. 1307 and 1371 Frankford avenue. James Lower, aged 58, and his son John, aged 25, the proprietors of the shop, were the victims. Both were instantly killed. Whether the wires broke or the men were attempting to take them down is not known.

A Plucky Woman with a Revolver.

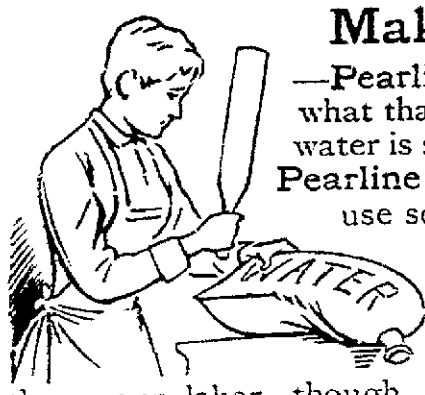

PITTSBURGH, July 22.—Ben Richards, a desperate colored burglar, was held a prisoner for hours at 101 Second avenue by Miss Hazen Bowman, a plucky young woman, with a revolver. Miss Bowman saw this burglar peering through a skylight. She pretended to be asleep, and as the man got half way through the aperture she drew her revolver and ordered him to stop. In that condition she kept him until an officer came along.

Three Hurt in a Runaway.

WOONSTOWN, Pa., July 22.—At Point Airy Station, a few miles from here, while unloading produce at the depot, a team containing Franklin Buzby, his son and Simon Wentzell became frightened at a passing freight train. The team ran wildly down the road, throwing out the three occupants. Buzby was injured in various places on the body and his son had his arm broken. Wentzell was also slightly injured.

Disorderly Socialists at Sofa.

SOFA, July 22.—After the fux-Premier Stambouloff on Saturday a crowd of socialists paraded in front of the French consulate and cheered for the French press on the Stambouloff. They then marched to the Austrian consulate with the intention of attacking it, but the cavalry prevented and dispersed the socialists.

Makes hard water soft

—Pearline. Every woman knows just what that means to her. Washing in hard water is so difficult, and the results so poor! Pearline reduces the labor, whether you use soft water or hard. But use Pearline, and it's just as easy to wash with hard water as with soft water—and the results are just as good. Pearline saves more things than your labor, though. We'll tell you of these savings from time to time. Keep your eye on Pearline "ads."

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back.

A DELAYED BRIDE.

She Wouldn't Be Wedded Till The Conditions Were All Right.

The company waited, but the bride was not ready. A bridesmaid was sent to notify her that George Edward was in the oriel room and the band under the stairs waiting to strike up the first strains of the wedding march.

"I don't care," she pouted as she threw herself disconsolately on a divan, to the great danger of her veil. "I'm not going to be unlucky all my life if I can help it. Dear, dear, why didn't I remember it sooner."

"Remember what, dear?" inquired the perplexed bridesmaid.

"Why, that everything I have on is new. I did remember that if "Something old and something new,

Or your choice you'll surely rue.

Every stitch I have on is new, and I just will not stir a step until I have something old added to my dress."

"Take my handkerchief," suggested one of the girls.

"What could I do with it?" whined the poor thing. "Brides don't have pockets; neither do they carry handkerchiefs in their hands. It would look as if I expected to cry."

"I have a happy thought," said the bridesmaid. "Exchange shoes with me."

"They won't fit. My feet are two sizes smaller than yours."

"Thanks, awfully. Haven't you a pair of your own Cinderellas?"

"Yes, I have," said the bride, jumping up in a hurry. "Your head is level, dear. Look in the pink box in the chiffonier, or in the blue one. Oh, they won't do, they're so awfully soiled!"

"Get me some bread crumbs and a box of powder," said a practical soul in the party. "Quick! I'll have them white in a jiffy."

"You're just dear," said the grateful bride. "Now I shall feel that I am properly married, and that everything has been done to insure my future happiness. Just one thing more for luck:

"Hurry! a shoe After me—do."

When the bride descended the stairs leaning on the arm of George Edward, the sweet serenity of her face was a subject of favorable comment. Her friends felt that she was not entering unprepared upon the future awaiting her, and she felt that way herself. —Detroit Free Press.

A DOCTOR'S YARN.

It Is of Two Sisters Who Killed Their Grandfather to Ease His Pain.

This is a bit of a true story a physician told me the other day, and it struck me as being the text for a fascinating story of the Sherlock Holmes sort. We were talking of the advisability of putting hopelessly ill persons out of their misery as soon as possible. Dr. B. didn't believe in it.

"I was asked to do it once," he said.

"Two sisters asked me to kill their grandfather, whom I was attending. He was old and could not recover. I refused. Next morning when I called the man was dead. The nurse told me the sisters had sent her out on an errand. When she returned the windows of the sick room were open. There was a strong odor of chloroform in the room and the man was dead."

"And what did you do?" was asked.

"Nothing. The elder sister is now under the care of a specialist in nervous diseases. She cannot sleep. She will not allow herself to be alone a moment, and she keeps the gas burning in her room all night. I think she will end in a madhouse."

Isn't that a priceless bit for some author's notebook? —Washington Post.

An Awful Bite.

"Speaking of fishing experiences," said the man in the negligee shirt, "I shall never forget the day when Bob Whitehead and you know Bob—were trying our luck on Lake Squam. We had fished for an hour or more and had caught only a few little fellows, when suddenly I had an awful bite!"

"And then you pulled in your line, hand over hand, only to lose a ten pound pickerel just as you were about to land him," interrupted the fat man sitting on the floor board.

"I had an awful bite," the fisherman resumed, without noticing his interrupter, "and I landed the fellow as flat as a door-mat. It was the biggest pickerel I ever encountered." —Boston Transcript.

Oh, Boston!

A funny incident—and not so funny, after all—occurred on the Fens the other afternoon. Two cyclists met unexpectedly. The woman did not turn to the right, and the man ran straight into her wheel, upsetting both. They scrambled to their feet, righted their bikes, and glared at each other for half a second. Then the man coolly slapped the woman's face, and jumping on his wheel, he rode away with lightning speed. An eyewitness of the scene was ungalant enough to applaud the act, for he said, it was deerved. —Boston Herald.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. G. Gundersen, of Diamond Lake, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was taken down with pneumonia, succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption, and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results."

HIS BIRTHDAY GIFT.

He Was Very Much Pleased Until His Eyes Were Opened.

He was neither young nor handsome, but his bank account was a thing of beauty, and his new yacht was more attractive than the loveliest pair of eyes or the sweetest mustache in the world.

He was calling upon her, and she was secretly conscious that his trap in front of the door was being curiously watched by at least two of her very dear friends.

"I hope I am not too early in calling, Miss Grace," he was saying, "but I really could not rest until I had thanked you for your beautiful birthday present. To think that you actually took the trouble to hem-stitch and embroider me a dozen handkerchiefs all yourself!"

"Oh, Mr. Goldie, don't speak of it. The only value of which my poor little gift is possessed is the fact that it is all the product of my own hands."

"Nothing could be more valuable, I am sure, and I shall treasure them always. So few young ladies are able to do such work nowadays. Now when my first wife was living—"

"Oh, Mr. Goldie, you know you haven't a second wife!"

"Not yet, to be sure, but I have always said that if I married again it would be a girl versed in the womanly arts in which our grandmothers were proficient."

"Why, Mr. Goldie, I—I am quite surprised! How odd that I should just happen to do that needlework for you!"

"It is charming, you mean? By the way, I have named my new yacht for you."

"Oh, Mr. Goldie, is it possible?"

"Indeed it is—that is, I—I didn't wish to be too personal, so I called it The Three Graces."

"Oh, indeed! That is quite a charming idea. I am sure."

"Yes; it was Miss Dora's idea. I had intended at first to call it simply the Grace. Quite fanciful of Miss Dora, was it not?"

"Yes, but dear Dora always did excel in fancy rather than fact."

"Ah? By the way, I fear you are quite a busy person, Miss Grace."

"Yes; I am always busy from morning to night."

"Indeed. I had hoped that you would go for a sail with me frequently, but if you are so busy, perhaps—"

"Oh, I—I think every one needs some recreation, don't you?"

"Quite so. And I cannot have you spoiling your pretty eyes even over that exquisite needlework. You must manage to get often. I only wish that we might sail on through—why, good morning, Miss Dora."

"Is that you, Dora? I didn't hear you ring the bell."

"I didn't, dear. The front door was open, so I came right in. Your mother wanted me to sit with her, but I told her that I was dying to see you. Isn't Grace's mother lovely, Mr. Goldie? I think it was just too sweet of her to embroider and hem-stitch all those lovely handkerchiefs for Grace to give you on your birthday. Why, are you going already? Well, I think I must go too. I had forgotten that our old fashioned Dorcas society meets this afternoon." —Chicago Times-Herald.

They Had Nerve.

The night clerk in a Main street drug store was awakened about 5 o'clock the other morning by two prosperous looking strangers, who took seats in front of the soda fountain. The clerk sleepily advanced to take their orders, which, judging from appearances, should have been for 15 cent drinks at least.

"Can you lend us two glasses of water and a couple of spoons?" blandly asked one of the visitors.

The clerk's mind was not working very clearly, and he obeyed.

Then one of the strangers took from his pocket a box of lemonade capsules, which contain citric acid in a powdered form and one of which is supposed to hold the ingredients for one glass of lemonade. He gravely poured the contents of two capsules into the glasses; they were stirred with the spoons and the contents slowly absorbed.

The clerk was wide awake by this time. "Won't you have some sugar to sweeten your lemonade with?" he asked, with an attempt at a smile.

"No, thank you," replied one of the pair. "We carry our own beverages with us mainly for the reason that drug store drinks are usually too sweet to be wholesome."

The strangers had got a block away from the store before the clerk was able to get his prophetic calls in working order. —Buffalo Express.

A Good Cheese.

"How true it is that fame and fortune both hinge on some small circumstance. The most successful artist at the annual exhibition of the French salon one year was a young gentleman named Baldwin Sowers."

Mr. Sowers' particular line was the delineation of still life, and so he painted a cheese.

After it was hung some malicious person slipped into the gallery the night before the exhibition and cut a round hole in the canvas, completely removing the cheese.

When the examining committee were on their rounds they came to the defaced picture and angrily sent for the artist to give an explanation.

An ordinary individual would have been overcome with despair at the outrage. Not so Mr. Sowers. When the chairman said, "Where is the cheese?" he responded calmly, "Ah, gentlemen! I declare I have painted it with too great fidelity. The mice have eaten it."

They awarded him the first prize. —New York Evening Sun.

FAST TIME BY TROTTERS.

Good Work Being Done by Orange County Horses.

The trotters are fairly at work now all over the country, and some fast miles are being made.

Several horses that appeared on the Campbell track, last fall, are doing good work. Friday, at Fleetwood, Quatermarch won the 2:18 trot in three straight heats, in 2:16, 2:15, 2:15. Good judges say that he could have gone in 2:10. Pure Wilkes and Taylorson, Goshen horses, were in the race, but finished seventh and eighth.

C. H. C. Beakes's horse, Mr. Fulton, and Juleka, owned by Mr. Sutton, of Warwick, were unplaced in the 2:20 class.

Weed Wilkes, a big black stallion, which was unplaced in the 2:24 trot at the Campbell track, last fall, won two heats at Saginaw, Mich., yesterday, in the 2:15 class, in 2:11 and 2:14.

There is a strong probability that these horses will be seen again this year in this city, at the fall meeting, September 11, 12, 13 and 14.

PEACH TRAIN ON THE L. AND H. ROAD

The Wells-Fargo Express Company to Put on Two Special Fruit Trains.

The Wells-Fargo Express Company, which controls the express business on the Lehigh and Hudson River Railroad, has arranged for a very much improved service for the accommodation of Sussex county peach growers. The shipments of peaches were so large, last year, from the section traversed by the L. and H. R. that a special fruit train was run by the express company and this year so many new orchards have come into bearing and the crop promises to be so large that two fruit trains a day will be put on the road. The cars will be provided with racks to insure the carriage of the fruit in good condition and the cars, which will be attached to fast trains when they reach the Erie, will be in Jersey City by midnight so that the fruit will be in readiness for early morning delivery.

—The rumor is current that the New York Condensed Milk Company will establish a bottling establishment here. It would be a good thing for the farmers and a help to our village.

Straw Rides Popular With Summer Boarders.

From the Liberty Register.

Straw rides are again popular with the city people this year. It is no uncommon sight to see a half dozen two and four-horse teams pass through the streets of Liberty. To make a first-class straw ride it is only necessary to have about three hundred pounds of nice clean straw put on a hay rigging and a heavy wagon, and have four horses and a good driver. From twenty to thirty of the boys and girls pile on top of the straw and away they go. They always have a good supply of tin horns and horse fiddles, and the music is great.

The Men Will Do It, Too.

The Spanish papers state that besides Santosces various other officers also fell, and it is rumored that one of them is the son of Campos. Passengers report that a railway car arrived at Villavieja station in Havana closed so that no one knows its contents. Some say this car contains Campos and others maintain that it holds the body of his son.

All subsequent efforts to capture him proved unavailable.

Ground to Death in a Wreck.

HAZLETON, Pa., July 22.—A freight train on the Lehigh Valley road parted in the middle between Shenandoah and Mahanoy City, and as the locomotive slowed up the two sections came together with a crash. Prosecuted for Stealing a Penny.

PITTSBURGH, July 22.—One of the most insignificant court cases ever known here came before Judge White on Saturday. C. H. Weber, aged 9, was sued by the Presbyterian Sunday school, on the south side, on a charge of larceny. It was claimed he stole the contents of the contribution box, and he was convicted. The amount at stake was just one cent. The judge suspended sentence on payment of costs.

His Life for His Friend.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 22.—Michael Zunka, while bathing in the river at Port Blanchard, a mile from here, got beyond his depth and in a gallant attempt to rescue him his friend, John B. Defaulting Cashier Caught in Mexico.

CHICAGO, July 22.—Chester W. Rowe the defaulting cashier of Poweshieck county, Iowa, is under arrest in the City of Mexico, and a large part of the $20,000 which he made away with has been attached by Pinkerton detectives, and will likely be returned to this country from which it was taken. Richard Rowe, brother of the absconding cashier, is also under arrest as an accomplice. It is somewhat doubtful, however, whether either of the brothers can be taken back to Iowa for trial. Under the Mexican law a foreigner may go there, renounce all allegiance to the country from which he came, become a Mexican citizen and thus avoid extradition.

"Lion" London Club Banned.

LONDON, July 22.—It has developed that a police raid was made upon the Palace club on Thursday. A number of prominent Americans were caught in the raid. The club is one of several fashionable night clubs in London which the London police regard as a den of iniquity. It opens at midnight and closes at 6 a. m. Late last night the club was very raucous. The club is elegantly appointed, having twenty-five pianos and a band playing nightly. A hundred men and women, all in evening dress, were captured. Among them were a United States senator, a congressman, a prominent law official of an eastern state, and an American police official. All save the proprietor and servants of the club were released. They were remanded.

SHE DIDN'T GO.

Her Mind Was Changed by an Unforeseen Incident.

"Chesterfield, dear," remarked young Mrs. Bittersweet, "I am really afraid that I must go away this summer. I hate to leave you, but I need a change badly."

Mr. Bittersweet held his paper before his face as he replied:

"I—I suppose Mrs. Brownsmith is going?"

"Of course she is. She says she hates it, but she just has to go. When her husband is left at home alone, he gives so many stag parties that the parlor curtains and carpets are sure to be ruined. You see, she wants to give them this year anyhow, and he won't give them to her under any circumstances without grumbling. In this way she will get the new things and be able to do all the grumbling herself."

"H'm! Stag parties are!"

"Very stupid affairs. I shall just shut up the parlor and all but a few of the other rooms. I don't intend to go off to the country and leave my poor boy to be bothered by housekeeping cares while I'm away."

"Very thoughtful, I'm sure. Fact is, I shall be busy at the office night and day and shall have no time for parties."

"I don't see how I can find the heart to leave you, after all. I'm sure I don't want to go at all, though everybody I know will be out of town, but the doctor says I need a change, and I'm sure that I have gained a few pounds since I was weighed in January."

"Oh, if the doctor thinks!"

"Yes, I suppose I shall have to go since you insist so upon it. But I shall have to be on the go every minute in the day lest I get homesick."

"Of course I shall miss you awfully."

"Oh, I'll stay if you wish, but I fear that I shall be poor company. You won't mind if the heat makes me a bit dull and cross, will you?"

"Oh, I wouldn't think of asking such a sacrifice. Your health demands it, and you must go."

"Yes, I wouldn't so much mind dying myself, but the idea of leaving you with no one to select your ties and watch that you don't smoke too many cigars is terrible."

"How thoughtful of you! But I thought that you intended to make a shopping trip today."

"Well, in hardly seemed worth while. You seemed so opposed to the idea of my going away when I spoke of it last week."

"Oh, but the doctor hadn't ordered it then."

"True. And it didn't seem worth while to get a lot of pretty new things when I might be too weak to go out and wear them, and if I were to die it would be terrible for you to see them."

"So you didn't go?"

"No, I just took a 25 mile spin on my wheel instead."

"You must begin your preparations at once. Of course I shall be miserable without you."

"And I without you. I shall dance a great deal. Nothing keeps off the blues so effectively as dancing, and I want to be able to write you long, cheerful letters to brighten your solitude."

"Yes, I shall be lonely indeed, but—"

"Hello, Bittersweet," called a jovial voice from the pavement below, "my wife has just gotten off to the seashore, and as you said yours would be out shopping all day I ran over to tell you all about our summer bachelors' club, of which we intend to make you president. I just saw Doc, and he says he saw your wife this morning and prescribed a change of air, as you requested. Say, old man, you don't look well yourself. What's the matter?"

"The only reply was a long groan, and then Mrs. Bittersweet's voice rose loud and clear in the next room. She was talking through the telephone, and this was what she said:

"Is this you, Emily? Yes? Well, I just called you up to say that I have decided not to go away at all this summer. My husband needs me at home, I find, and we can spend all our evenings on dear mamma's veranda anyhow; it is always cool there."

—Chicago Times-Herald.

She Knew Something.

In an alley off Grand River avenue a laundry wagon was being turned a triflingly sharply when over it tumbled against a fence, and down went the horse. Three men in an instant were upon the animal, one sitting on his head. Passersby rushed up the alley, and the usual avalanche of suggestions were showered forth: "Put something under his knees." "Look out for his hoofs." "Loosen the traces." "Tie the wagon right." "Give him rope, and he'll get up himself." Finally the wagon was dragged away, the gentleman sitting on the horse's head maintaining his position. "Butter fingers" fooled with the harness until everything was reported clear. "Stand back!" the man on the head shouted, "or he'll kick the daylight out of you!" The crowd drew back, but the horse did not rise. "Loosen the belly band, you blamed duffers!" floated over the heads of the horse raisers. It came from a woman looking out of a nearby window. The order was silently obeyed, and the horse jumped to his feet. —Detroit News added to the milk at each feeding will regulate the bowels, strengthen and save the child. Twenty-five thousand physicians endorse it.

MONDAY, JULY 22, 1895.

The indications are that there will be no lack of candidates for the local nominations in the gift of the Republican party. But it does not follow that in a multitude of candidates there is strength.

The Democratic State Committee of New Jersey has decided to call the State convention for Sept. 28. The members of the committee all express themselves as sanguine of success in the coming election.

The New York police force made 101 excise arrests, yesterday, as compared with 105 on the preceding Sunday. Despite police vigilance and activity the newspapers are agreed that the city was very far from dry, that the "score" of the saloonkeepers is over and that, believing that no law is stronger than public opinion, they are encouraged, by the general denunciation of the Police Department's crusade, to sell on Sunday as of old and take their chances on punishment.

Kate Chase Sprague is not to lose her home. When her financial necessities became known a number of wealthy men, who wished to honor the memory of her father, the late Chief Justice Chase, arranged to raise a fund of $75,000 for her. Six men, William C. Whitney, Calvin S. Brice, J. Pierpont Morgan, Paul J. Sorg, John Wannamaker and Emerson McMillen, have contributed $5,000 each and they are in communication with other generous men of means and hope to soon have pledges for the whole amount, which it is proposed to raise.

The rank and file of the Republicans in this Assembly District do not take kindly to the scheme of the party bosses to nominate Paul Tuckerman, of Tuxedo Park, for Member of Assembly. As one of them put it, the other day, "there are enough American citizens in the district to choose a candidate from without going into the annexed district for a man whose only qualification is the size of his pocketbook, and who has no interest in and sympathy with the plain people." If one of the plain people of the district should enter the field against Mr. Tuckerman, all the power of the bosses could not force the nomination of the Tuxedo Park candidate.

Railroad earnings have always been accepted as an index of business conditions and the greatly increased earnings of the railroads show conclusively that the business of the country is fast reviving. One hundred and thirty-two roads report for May an increase of $2,500,065 in net earnings over last year. The gross earnings of these roads for May were $3,476,874 greater than for the same month, last year. For the first week in July seventy-eight roads report an increase of over forty-three per cent., $1,953,758, in gross earnings, and for the second week in July an increase of twenty-nine per cent., $1,189,685.

SUSQUEHANNA CONDUCTOR'S CLAM-BAKE.

A Very Great Success—Large Crowd in Attendance.

The Susquehanna & Western Railroad conductor's clam-bake at Echo Lake, yesterday, was a great success, fully five thousand persons being present.

A special train of six coaches left this city at 8:30 yesterday morning, with 200 passengers, and more coaches were added at Deckertown and other passenger picked up at every station along the line.

The bake which was under the management of "Jack" Sherwood, was excellent and gave general satisfaction.

The day passed off without accident or disturbance of any kind, which reflects great credit upon the authorities in charge. Many persons tried their skill in fishing on the lake and several large bass were caught. The bake was a success financially, and a neat sum will be added to the treasury of the O. R. C.

DEFENDER AND VIGILANT.

The Vigilant Giving Defender a Close Race To-day.

SANDY HOOK, July 22.—After considerable manoeuvring, Defender and Vigilant started on their second race in a stiff twelve knot breeze coming out of the West. Defender was first over the line at 11:24:30. Vigilant soon followed at 11:25:10, and soon took the windward position.

HIGHLANDS—Defender turned the first mark ten miles from the start at 12:36:15, and Vigilant at 12:37:37. After rounding the first stake, Vigilant gained on Defender, and is considerably to windward.

After turning the first mark Defender drew rapidly away from Vigilant and at second mark was fully a mile ahead. She turned seven minutes ahead of Vigilant, and is now on the run home and steadily increasing her lead.

KILLED WHILE TRYING TO ESCAPE.

A Sullivan County Farmer Killed by Jumping from a Third Story Window.

MONTICELLO, July 22.—Farmer Conway, residing near Monticello, was arrested for disturbing the peace. In endeavoring to escape he jumped, to-day, from the third story of the Niven block to the pavement and was instantly killed.

Fresh Air for Catholic Children.

Rev. Father McClancy announced, yesterday, that two carloads of poor Catholic children from New York would arrive in this city, to-morrow, and that it was desired to entertain them for three weeks in Catholic families in this city and vicinity. Those who will take children are requested to be at the convent at 9 o'clock.

A Broken Fire Alarm Wire.

The fire alarm wire broke, about 7:40 o'clock, last evening, on Academy avenue, near Grant street. The wire was held together by the insulation, but every time it was struck by the swaying branches of an adjacent tree the circuit would be opened and of course the bell would sound. Sup. Smith found and repaired the break, this morning.

Going On With the Milk Exchange.

Those who say the organization of a Milk Exchange has been abandoned are "talking through their hat." Imperfections in the plan at first agreed upon have caused a delay, and the Exchange will be organized on a slightly modified basis from that at first proposed, and will soon be ready to commence doing business.

For Building Up

There is no medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it lays a solid foundation in making pure, rich blood.

"Weak lungs affected my health for two years. The least cold troubled me greatly. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla in the newspaper and after one bottle I felt a great deal better. Since taking six bottles I don't think there is any building up medicine that equals Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has effected a wonderful change in my health." Mrs. A. LAMBRECHT, Franklin, N. Y.

LAWSUIT OVER A FLOWER.

Moved It from Grave to Grave and Finally Went to Law About It. From the Sullivan County Record.

Miss Carrie Bauer, of Kenosha Lake, brought a civil action against Charles Heidt, of the same place, claiming $10 damages for the removal of a flower from a grave in the Kenosha Lake Cemetery. The plant, which both parties claim, had been transferred back and forth from the grave of one family to that of the other until finally, a week or so ago, Mr. Heidt took it home. The trial was called for last Saturday afternoon before Justice A. B. Marsh, in the town of Bethel, but it being a legal half-holiday, a non-suit was secured. The action was renewed on Tuesday, and the trial will come off July 24.

SYDNEY SMITH'S

Famous recipe for Salad Dressing:

Two boiled potatoes strained through a kitchen sieve.
Softness and smoothness to the salad give.
Of Mustard take a single spoon—
Disturb the condiment that best soon soon.
Yet deem it not, though man of taste, a fault
To add a double quantity of salt.
Four times the spoon with Oil of Lucca crown
And twice with vinegar procured from town.
True taste requires it, and four post begs
The pounded yellow of two well-boiled eggs;
Let onion atoms lurk within the bowl.
And scarce suspected animate the whole.
And lastly, in the flavored compound toss
A magic teaspoonful of anchovy's nose.
Oh, great and glorious! Oh, herbaceous mear!
'T would tempt the dying anchorite to eat;
Back to the world he'd turn his weary soul,
And plunge his fingers in the salad bowl.

Yes—that's it—just the kind of olive oil we use, 'Lucca Cream' Salad Oil. We meant to tell you a true little story about it only we're too busy. But it's just the kind which Sydney Smith meant for his famous salad dressing.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON'S STORM.

Barns Destroyed by Lightning Near Bullville—Buildings Blown Down and Orchards Destroyed at Pine Bush.

The storm which came up, Saturday afternoon, which was light in this city, did considerable damage in other localities.

Lightning struck the barn of George Turner on the William Bush farm two miles east of Bullville. The barn and hay house were set on fire and totally destroyed.

Mr. Turner lives at Waldwick and Cornelius Cahill occupies the farm. He had a quantity of hay and farming implements and these were also burned.

The barns consisted of four buildings, all joined together, and fire in one meant destruction of all. The main barn was 32x50, one hay house, 18x30, another 18x36 and the cow stables and silo 30x40. The buildings were insured for $1,500 through the agency of Case & Taylor, of this city.

A cow belonging to Michael Kennedy, who lives near the Turner place, was struck by lightning and killed. The animal was insured for $25 with Case & Taylor.

Although there was much lightning and wind at Bullville there was but little rain.

At Pine Bush there were two storms; one at 3:30 which passed to the northeast doing but little damage. The second storm was at 4:20 and was a veritable cyclone. The wind was terrific and the rain fell in sheets so thick that one could not see a rod and in a few minutes the streets were running rivers.

The extent of damage by the wind cannot be estimated. Fruit trees were uprooted and broken down and those that stood through the storm were stripped of their fruit; corn and other crops were leveled with the ground and much of them ruined.

The new stable and sheds on the race course, containing eight box stalls, were blown down and the roof and siding carried two hundred feet. Only a few of the stalls remain to show where the building stood. There was a horse in one of the stalls. It was found standing near the fence uninjured after the storm. Sections of the board fence 100 feet long and eight feet high, which surrounded the grounds, were scattered in the neighboring fields, some of the boards being carried a distance of 200 feet.

The large apple orchard belonging to Henry Whitmarsh, adjoining the race course, was nearly ruined, about half of it being in the path of the cyclone and nearly every tree being uprooted or broken down.

A new stable erected by Hamilton Howell on Charles street was removed from its foundation three feet. How much farther it would have gone is not known, but a log two feet in diameter and a stout oak fence stopped its course and it was left careened to one side.

Two large chestnut trees in the village were struck by lightning.

The path of the cyclone as it passed to the northeast of Pine Bush was marked by fallen trees and leveled crops.

A barn was struck by high blizz in Ellenville and destroyed, and there are reports of other damage in that locality, but we have been unable to learn particulars.

Cholera Morbus is a dangerous complaint, and often is fatal in its results. To avoid this you should use DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure, as soon as the first symptoms appear. W. D. Olney.

OBITUARY.

Hon. George W. Greene

A despatch was received in Goshen yesterday afternoon, announcing the death in New York city of Hon. George W. Greene. It was known that he had been in failing health since he left Goshen in November, 1893, and the news of his death was no surprise to his friends in Goshen and other places in Orange county.

Mr. Greene was about sixty-five years old. He was a native of Mount Hope and after his admission to the bar settled in Goshen, where he soon won distinction by his ability as a pleader and as a campaign speaker. He was elected Special County Judge in the early sixties and in 1868 was elected to represent the Orange-Sullivan district in Congress. His seat was, however, contested by Gen. Van Wyck, and the House being strongly Republican he was unseated. In 1885 he was elected Member of Assembly from this district and was re-elected for the four succeeding terms. He made a fine record at Albany and was recognized as one of the ablest Democrats on the floor of the Assembly and was regarded as one of the party's leaders.

He was deeply interested in securing the legislation necessary for bridging the Hudson at New York, and after the passage of his bridge bill by the State legislature spent much time in Washington trying to secure the necessary legislation from Congress. It was up hill work and after the veto of the first bill by President Cleveland he almost lost heart.

Mr. Greene was a close student of politics. He was a Democrat from principle and was such an able and eloquent advocate of the cause of Democracy that his services were in demand by national and State committees and he spoke at different times in many of the States of the Union.

About six weeks ago the law partnership between Mr. Greene and Mr. Bedell was dissolved, the latter taking the business.

Mr. Greene is survived by his widow and one daughter, who reside in Goshen.

Alma Vivian Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Hayes are plunged in deepest sorrow over the loss of their little daughter, Alma Vivian, who died at noon today of convulsions, aged two years seven months and nineteen days.

The child was as well as usual, yesterday, and accompanied her parents to Midway Park. After their return home she was seized with convulsions and never recovered consciousness. All that was possible was done for her but medical skill and the loving care of her parents could avail nothing and she died at noon, to-day.

The funeral will be private and only the relatives and intimate friends of the family will attend.

John Lee.

John Lee died, yesterday morning, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. William Wood, 192 East Main street, aged fifty-eight years. The cause of death was cholera morbus, from which he had suffered for a week.

Mr. Lee was born in county Kildare, Ireland, and came to this country many years ago, and settled at Bullville, where he worked at farming until a few years ago, when he removed to this city. He is survived by his widow and by two daughters, Mary, wife of James Johnson, and Katie, wife of William Wood, both of this city. He was a member of the Episcopal Church. The funeral notice appears elsewhere.

Mrs. Jehiel Gregory.

Mrs. Elizabeth, wife of Jehiel Gregory, died at State Hill, Saturday night. The cause of death was a tumor, which had confined her to her bed since last March.

Deceased was a member of the Ridgebury Methodist Church and the funeral services, which were held at her late residence, yesterday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, were conducted by the pastor of that church assisted by Revs. Messrs. Orandall and Brittain. The remains were taken to-day, on Erie train 1, to Susquehanna, Pa., her former home, for burial.

Couldn't Work in the Hay Field, To-day.

The weather was too "catchy" for David R. Miller to risk cutting any grass, this morning, and so that work that he has arranged with the Common Council to do on the extension of Highland avenue, "after haying," is one day further off.

A Mishap at the Saw Works.

The National Saw Works are shut down, to-day, caused by the breaking of two sections of the manifolds, due to a leaking tube. It is expected the damage will be repaired in time to start up the shops in the morning.

Hand Cut by a Buzz Saw.

David Lemon, a carpenter employed by Lindsay & Co., had two fingers of his left hand badly lacerated by coming in contact with a buzz saw, on Friday afternoon.

Tired women need to have their blood purified and enriched by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It will give them strength and health. 11

Funeral of E. Dikeman—Goshen Athletics vs. Columbus—A Close Game—The Sunday Excursion—Other Notes. From Our Regular Correspondent.

—The funeral of the late Edwin Dikeman occurred at noon, to-day. Rev. F. A. Crane preached the funeral services. It was one of the largest funerals ever seen in Goshen. The pall bearers were Messrs. —The base ball cranks of Goshen and Middletown will have an opportunity of witnessing a ball game in this village, on Wednesday next, at the Goshen Driving Park, between the Goshen Athletic Club and the Columbus, of Middletown. Big Crops of Corn and Oats.

The promise now is for the best yield of corn to the acre in this section of the country known in years. Oats, too, will return the farmer of this locality richer reward than in many seasons. It is a pity that the acreage to corn is not larger, and it is amazing that more ground is not devoted by our farmers to this best paying of crops.

Band Concerts at Midway.

There will be band concerts at Midway Park Tuesday and Saturday evenings of this week. The change was made from Friday evening on account of the exhibition of fireworks, which the Pain Fireworks Company will give on Saturday night.

Pain's Fireworks Exhibit.

There are sixty-three numbers on the programme for the Pain's fireworks exhibit at Midway Park, Saturday evening. Many of the numbers contain forty-eight, twenty-four and twelve different pieces. The exhibit will be by all odds the finest thing of the kind ever seen in this vicinity and a very large attendance is assured.

GIFTS.

It was not for your heart I sought,
But you, dear, foolish maid, have brought
Only your heart to me.
Ah, that so rare a gift should be
The gift I wanted not!
I asked a momentary thing,
But 'tis as if you brought
And with ingenious eyes
You offer, as the lesser prize,
This priceless offering.
Oh, what, in love's name, shall I do,
Who have both lost and captured you?
You will but love me; so
Since I, too, cannot let you go,
I can but love you too.
—Arthur Symonds in Academy.

A TEMPTATION.

When Leander Clarke married Mabel Thorpe, he had no expectation of ever being a rich man, but as his affairs appear at the present time he is on the broad highway to future wealth. It all arose from the fact that he took time for the forelock, the only way poor mortals have of ever getting even with him of the scythe and hourglass.

Now, Mabel Thorpe did not expect her hero to swim the Hellespont of life with all his armor on, but she did demand from him, as she had a right to do, a high moral standard, for she had not married him until she had seen, as she believed, his whole past life laid open before her as a book. There is no time when a man is as weakly sentimental and as religious as when he is trying to live up to the standard of a pure young girl's ideal, and Leander became almost an angel.

There are very few of us capable of making human angels of ourselves. Good and evil are as persistently present in our moral nature as light and darkness are in our atmosphere, and one serves as the complement of the other. To banish might we use the light of science, to counteract wrong we invoke divine help, but so largely is our worldly nature in excess of our spiritual powers that we are constantly in danger of erring to be forgiven—in other words, sinning and repenting.

Mabel Thorpe believed in an inflexible uprightness. The command to do evil that good may come was to her a perverted text. She was not aware that there are sins of omission as well as of commission, and that her unrighteous condemnation of sinners and her severe judgments were in themselves of a sinful nature. The self-righteous are often harder to live with than the sinner.

Leander Clarke had been a good son, and he intended to be a good husband. He was both proud and fond of his wife, but certainly regretted that he could not give her all the luxuries that she could appreciate, not even the grand piano that her musical talent deserved. But he went to work with a will to make her happy and hoped in a few years to be able to add all other needful things.

Among the wedding presents of the young couple was one that far outshone all the rest—a superb set of diamonds sent by an uncle of Leander's who was near to death and gave the residue of a large estate in this extravagant present. Leander himself was genuinely sorry that such an undesirable gift had been made, but he argued that his wife was a sensible woman and would turn them into something more suitable to their condition in life—a piano, for instance, which was a necessity rather than a luxury. What was his surprise when his bride said:

"I never was so pleased in my life. Diamonds represent to me the crystallization of everything beautiful in art and nature. I never dreamed that I should possess such magnificence."

"But the have no associations," said her husband. "They are not heirlooms."

"They will be. All diamonds were new at some time. And are they not associated with the dear old man who gave them?"

The dear old man had been a terror in the family and had only given the diamonds to Leander's wife because he hated that nephew a little less than the others, whom he hoped to make horribly jealous and angry and had succeeded.

When Leander asked his wife to keep her diamonds in the bank, she promptly declined.

"But you surely will not wear them, dear?" he suggested.

"Why not?" she asked.

"It would injure our prospects and not be consistent with our position."

"They were a gift to me. Surely I have the right to do as I please with my own."

"The right, yes. But I thought my wife had more discretion. I did not know you cared for gewgaws, Mabel."

So the first cloud came on the horizon of their love, but Leander was good tempered and Mabel said that, and it disappeared. The truth was that Leander had expected a handsome sum of money from this very uncle, who was a bachelor and very old. But age had not mellowed his ugly disposition to thwart his relatives, and after raising the young man's hopes he took a malicious pleasure in disappointing them.

The young couple began life in a pretty furnished cottage on the modern plan of a churning dish and hand painted china, and it worked like a charm. Mabel presided over the dainty cuisine, the butler's pantry, the parlor, and really did wonders. Leander fell in love with her over and over again. But for the diamonds they would have been as happy as larks.

Did they hear a sound at night—it was a burglar after those precious gems. They were afraid to leave the house alone lest thieves break in and steal, and one or the other of the two was compelled to be the hiding place of the jewels when they went out together.

Mabel did not care to adorn herself with diamonds, when she went to market or to church, but she could not listen to a sermon in peace if the gems were not about her. And somehow it did annoy her to carry concealed wealth like a brigand or a smuggler.

But when Leander had a chance to buy shares in the Little Catwisp Lumber company and to make as much in wife of the editor of The Graphic, the leading local paper of Miami county, writes "I was troubled with heart disease for six years, severe palpitations, shortness of breath, together with such extreme nervousness, that at times I would walk the floor nearly all night. We consulted the best medical talent."

They said there was no help for me, that I had organic disease of the heart for which there was no remedy. I had read your advertisement in The Graphic and a year ago, as a last resort, tried one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart, which convinced me that there was true merit in it. I took three bottles each of the Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine and it completely cured me. I sleep well at night, my heart beats regularly and I have no more smothering spells. I wish to say to all who are suffering as I did, there is relief untold for them if they will only give your remedies just one trial."

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at 25c. 6 bottles for $1.50. It will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

three months as he would in a year by his clerkship Mabel would not listen to the suggestion that the bank would advance enough on the diamonds to enable him to make the investment.

Then Leander discovered that his wife could be a very obstinate woman. It was in vain that he laid before her the benefit that would result from a transient disposal of the gems. She replied, not without logic on her side, that the Little Catwisp might be a failure, and then her precious securities would be forfeited. Leander, man fashion, grew angry, and after some hot words reached the penultimate of passion.

"I wish," he said in tones of invective, "that burglars would get the hateful stones. They might at least be of some use to them!"

It is said that curses, like chickens, come home to roost. After Leander had asked forgiveness for his rudeness and Mabel had sweetly extended the olive branch of conciliation he suggested that she be doubly careful of her cherished possessions.

"The town is full of burglars, and they know the people who have fine diamonds, and if they once set out to get them they'll succeed."

Mabel did not sleep with the diamonds in the same room. Womanlike, she thought if she secreted them in some place where they would never be detected they would be safe. Neither the ash barrel nor the ragbag entered into her calculations, but places just as inconsistent did.

One night there was a crash in the room below. Mabel shook her sleeping husband and whispered in his ear:

"Burglars! Get your revolver and go down stairs. The diamonds are in the bottom of the clock."

Leander was startled and confused, but as the noise continued he hurried on his clothes, and taking his revolver ran softly down the stairs. Mabel remained where she was, shivering with fear.

There was a fearful commotion below, the noise of falling furniture, opening and closing of windows and the rapid firing of the revolver after some flying robber. Then regard for her husband's life compelled Mabel to hurry to his assistance. She found him lying on the floor, grasping his revolver.

She did not faint nor shriek, but, kneeling beside him, bathed his face and besought him to speak to her.

"Where am I?" he asked feebly as he tried to raise himself. "Are the diamonds safe?"

"Never mind the diamonds," said his wife. "Are you mortally wounded anywhere?"

"I don't know," answered Leander feebly, and to her credit be it recorded, Mrs. Leander assisted her husband to a couch and sent off, or rather called for, assistance before she even thought of her diamonds.

Then the open door of the clock told the whole story. The diamonds were gone, not and branch! And they were the only things stolen.

If Leander had been surprised at the manner of his wife on receiving the jewels, he was astonished at the calm indifference with which she parted from them. She allowed the usual course to be taken to recover the thief or thieves to justice, but when no results followed she said she was glad of it; that the gems had been like an evil eye to them, and for her part she never wanted to hear of them again.

"I wonder," she said, "that I did not see it in that light before. I will never keep anything in my house again to tempt the cupidity of the wicked or unfortunate. To that extent am I my brother's keeper."

But the effect upon her husband was entirely different. Either he caught cold on that night of the burglary or his nervous system received a shock, for he was almost ill from the effects of his tussle with the burglar. And he could not endure to have the subject mentioned before him. Not even the success of the "Little Catwisp," in which a friend had invested for him, gave him the peace and rest he craved.

A little incident that happened at that time did, however, help to restore him to his normal condition. His wife received a small package, accompanied by a soiled and dilapidated note, which, upon being opened, read:

HONORABLE MABEL—If I do not sleep since I stole your diamonds, my yore lady am I am a catch if I give them up for me. an anxious friend.

And in the package Mabel found her diamonds, exactly as she had last seen them.

She was pleased—where is the woman who would not have been—and she at once showed her confidence in her husband by placing the gems in his hands for safe keeping in the bank.

"I wish I had taken your advice earlier," she said gracefully. "It would have saved us so much trouble."

Leander murmured something about all being well that ends well and at noon brought her a certificate of deposit.

There we leave them on the way to fortune civil happiness if—if Leander's conscience does not upset the whole scheme. He would give a great deal to know, how much or how little Mabel has discovered. My own opinion is that she saw through it from the first and holds herself equally guilty as accessory after the crime, and with that sweet fickleness which even an upright woman employs she will make herself a loving accomplice, for it is a foregone conclusion that Leander Clarke was his own burglar.—Detroit Free Press.

Dress Made of Cigar Ribbons.

Mme. Ida Lane Ney of Vienna has discovered a new use for cigar ribbons. For the past five years she has collected the narrow, yellow bits of silk used in tying cigars together, and to each of these she has "joined" a strip of black dress silk of equal length and width. Lately she found that the piece of goods was large enough to make a dress, and acted accordingly. There are 3,000 cigar ribbons in the dress.

Why Was It

that Ayer's Sarsaparilla, out of the great number of similar preparations manufactured throughout the world, was the only medicine of the kind admitted at the World's Fair, Chicago? And why was it that, in spite of the united efforts of the manufacturers of other preparations, the decision of the World's Fair Directors was not reversed?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless your physician knows of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher that it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

DON'T STOP TOBACCO

It is Injurious To Stop Suddenly

And don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so, as it is nothing more than a substitute. In the sudden stoppage of the use of tobacco you must have some stimulant, and in most all cases, the effect of the stimulant, be it opium, morphine, or other opiates, leaves a far worse habit contracted. Ask your druggist about "BACO-CURO." It is purely vegetable. You do not have to stop using tobacco with "BACO-CURO." It will notify you when to stop and your desire for tobacco will cease. Your system will be as free from nicotine as the day before you took your first chew or smoke. An ironclad written guarantee to a absolutely cure the tobacco habit in all its forms, or money refunded.

Dear Sir:—I have used tobacco since for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being at least. I tried the so-called "Keeley Cure," "No-To-Bac," and other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured. I am in perfect health, and the terrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it.

Yours very truly,

C. W. HORNICK

Dear Sir:—I have used tobacco since for thirty-three years, and during the past two years have used chewing tobacco very extensively. My nervous system was affected considerably. I have often tried to give up the use of tobacco, but always failed, until I bought three boxes of your "Baco-Curo." I used tobacco at the same time while taking "Baco-Curo," and after a week I lost the appetite for tobacco—smoking or chewing. I am enjoying better health, and consider your "Baco-Curo" the most harmless and reliable remedy for tobacco habit.

Yours truly,

WHAT MR. KRAMER SAYS OF "BACO-CURO."

This is to certify that I, F. D. Kramer, of Atlantic, Iowa, was an inveterate smoker of cigarettes for more than two years.

About eight weeks ago I bought three boxes of "Baco-Curo." I began taking it according to directions, and after taking one and one-half boxes, all the desire for cigarettes left me, and I have had no desire to smoke since.

I can heartily recommend "Baco-Curo" to all who are desirous to get rid of the tobacco habit or tobacco habit in any form, and are in search of a cure. I had become so under the influence of cigarettes, I could not remember anything; could not study, unless under the influence of the drug, which is death in the end. I hope you are supplying the lives of more boys and young men to-day, than anything that is known to the world. Boys, before it is too late get some of this remedy that killed the craving for cigarettes in me and save your young life. Restore yourself to manhood. You will feel as though you had escaped an awful doom, and you have, when cured by "Baco-Curo," for you feel like a new being. I never felt better in all my life than at this present writing. I did not know what was the matter with me, until informed by the agent. He told me what was the reason I could not do anything unless under the influence of the death-dealing poison found in cigarettes. I do not believe him at first, until he explained the action on the system. Then I was the goods and thank God and all concerned, I am a sound person to-day. Hoping that this may reach the unfortunate cigarette smoker, I remain,

Yours respectfully,

F. D. KRAMER

THE "NEW" COUPLE.

She was "new" and was constructed on the latest modern plan. But she lost her heart, like others, and of course "true" lost to man. So at last the two were married, and they started married life. As they thought, equipped and ready, well prepared for any strife.

She was posted on his business quite as thoroughly as he. She had studied all the details, and, as any one could see, she could run the shop or office, and it also seemed quite clear she could not as his bookkeeper or could serve as his cashier.

She could sell goods on commission or could buy on thirty days. She was sharper than most merchants in all proper business ways. She could "take" from his dictation, and dictate to others too. There was nothing round the office that she really couldn't do.

So they thought they were well armored for a life of great success. But the outcome of their trial was a failure, more or less. They are doomed to boarding houses, and regretfully they roam. For while both can run the office neither one can make a home.

An Original Witness.

Some time since, in southwest Georgia, a murder case was being tried before a certain judge. The state's attorneys had seen the shooting, and they had an old negro on the witness stand. The negro became intensely interested in the story he was telling. His big eyes were fixed upon the lawyer who was questioning him, and he seemed to think there was no other person in the room. He was trembling with excitement, so much so that he stammered, and he told his story as if he was having a strictly private and confidential conversation with the state's attorney.

"And 'en, boss," he said in solemn and awe-struck tones, "I-jes ex I wara-comin round de cornah, sah, I seen him 'long o' de lamp-post." "I—"

"What time was this?" asked the judge. The witness paused just for a second, as if something had disturbed him, but then, without turning his head, he went on:

"I-jes, as I war a-comin round de cornah, boss, I seen him 'long o' de lamp-post." "I—"

The judge rapped the desk before him smartly with his gavel.

"Stop!" he said. "The court is asking you a question. At what time did you come around the corner?"

Again the witness stopped and made a motion with his hand as if he was brushing away a fly from his ear, but he never turned around, and again started to tell his story:

"Ez I wuz a-sayin, boss, I rounded dah dah cornah, an I seen him 'long o' de lamp-post." The judge brought his matter down with a noise which almost caused the witness to leap off the stand, and roared out:

"What do you mean, sir? If you do not answer my question instantly, I shall commit you!"

The witness turned, faced the court and said in deprecating tones:

"I-look er yere, boss, deen' you see I'm talkin to dis gen'leman?"

The lawyers were almost convulsed with laughter, the judge, however, less, his head and shook with merriment, and the witness was allowed to finish his story undisturbed.—Atlanta Constitution.

He Gave It Away.

A few years ago a prominent oil producer of Pittsburg was putting down a well in a territory that had never been tested for oil. He was keeping the fact a secret, and in order that, in case he got a good well, he might without difficulty secure all the leases he desired in the vicinity.

He was on the ground himself, watching with great interest the indications. Everything pointed to success. Two days before the well was expected to "come in," he was called home. Anxious about the result, he arranged with his contractor to telegraph him as soon as the drill reached the sand. He knew, however, that secrets will sometimes leak out of a telegraph office, and so he told the driller that the sentence, "Pine trees grow tall," would mean that he had struck oil. The driller promised to do as he was ordered. The mingled satisfaction and veneration of the producer may be imagined when, two days later, he received the following telegram: "Pine trees grow tall. She's squirting clean over the derrick." His hope that he should have no competitors for leases was disappointed.—Argonaut.

FOR A NEW ACADEMY.

The Committee of the Board of Education Ready to Receive Plans and Estimates of Cost—A General Idea of the New Structure.

Messrs. H. W. Wiggins, I. M. Corwin, J. G. Harding and E. T. Hanford, the committee of the Board of Education on the proposed new Academy building, after as far as possible acquainting themselves with the best methods of construction, by inspecting school buildings in many cities in this and adjoining States, have prepared a circular setting forth in a general way the ideas of such a building as they think will be required here, and have sent these out to architects, inviting them to submit plans and estimates, these to be in the hands of the committee by August 15. Architects from New York, Binghamton and Elmira have already signified their intention to submit plans.

The matter of ventilation seems to be the greatest difficulty to overcome in the construction of school buildings, and the committee has given this subject very great attention in their investigations, and hope to be able to devise a plan that will give the best results possible. They will adopt the best sanitary arrangement that is presented for steam heating with direct and indirect radiation, and by supplying fresh air by the fan system, which they regard as the best now in use.

The Board is thoroughly satisfied that the further use of the present academy building involves a risk that they and the parents of the children should not assume. All experts who have examined it agree that the weight in the building and the springing of the floors have loosened the walls and produced the collapsing of the Ford's Theatre building in Washington. The Board is convinced of the absolute necessity for a new building and the committee is trying to meet this necessity as far as possible. As soon as a set of plans is accepted the architect will be required to submit a sketch in water colors which will show what the building will look like, and this with the plans and estimate of cost will be submitted to the taxpayers.

The committee has asked for a three story brick building, with a frontage of 150 feet on Academy avenue and a depth of 100 feet with accommodations for 600 pupils. It is to have assembly rooms on the first and second floors, each large enough to accommodate 300 pupils, with eight or nine class rooms opening off each assembly room. The third story is to be divided for a chemical laboratory, science and drawing rooms and school library, and the cost complete, including everything except school furniture, is not to exceed $55,000.

The present building will accommodate only about 275 pupils and a new one on the plans proposed would relieve the ward schools of over 300 pupils in the higher grades and thus save the expense of rented rooms besides furnishing better accommodations to pupils.

SUNDAY SERVICES AT MIDWAY.

Conducted by Rector Evans—A Very Large Attendance.

The open air services at Midway Park, yesterday afternoon, were conducted by Rev. David J. Evans of Grace Church. The church choir was present and, assisted by several volunteers, rendered the musical part of the services in a most admirable manner. The attendance was large, the pavilion being crowded. The closest and most respectful attention was paid during the whole service and no one who was at the park, yesterday afternoon, could doubt that the clergymen who are holding services there are doing a good work.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

A Tree Blown Down by the Wind Almost Strikes a Carriage

Yesterday evening, when the storm came up, Mr. and Mrs. B. VanSteenberg, of Goshen, who had been visiting friends in this city, started to drive home.

When in front of The McFlat, a gust of wind blew down one of the large maple trees, which fell across the road and would have fallen upon the wagon, had not the horse made a sudden plunge forward. As it was, the carriage was brushed by the branches of the tree, the whip was broken and Mr. VanSteenberg's hand was bruised.

CONDITION OF THE MILK TRADE.

A Great Fallings Off in the Supply—Prices for June and July.

From the Milk Reporter.

The output of milk is fully thirty per cent, less than on June 1st, and the end is not yet. While there is still enough to meet all calls the market is beginning to feel the effect of the shrinkage and a week of good hot weather would cause some lively hustling to secure supplies. In any event the present outlook has the appearance of a shortage in the market for the balance of July, with prospect of the same condition for August.

Bills for June milk were generally settled for at two cents per quart and the price for July is understood to be the same.

According to the scale price these figures for milk indicate $4.75 per forty quart can of cream.

Saved from Drowning

Yesterday three men from this city went swimming in the Walkkill at the bend in the river near W. W. Shaw's. One of the men stepped into the hole in which George Clark was drowned, a few weeks ago, and not being a good swimmer sank twice before his companions could go to his assistance.

As he came up the last time one of his companions seized him by the hair and dragged him into shallow water and he was then assisted to the shore.

Father Watson's Resignation

Never in the history of medicine has the demand for one particular remedy for female diseases equalled that attained by

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never in the history of Mrs. Pinkham's wonderful Compound has the demand for it been so great as it is today.

From Maine to California, from the Gulf to the St. Lawrence, come the glad tidings of woman's suffering relieved by it; and thousands upon thousands of letters are pouring in from grateful women, saying that it will and does positively cure those painful

Ailments of Women.

It will cure the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, and consequent spinal weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the change of life.

THANKS THE CHILDREN.

The Manager of the Fresh Air Fund Acknowledges the Contribution of Mrs. Stewart's Kindergarten.

The following letter will explain itself. It was received in acknowledgment of the money handed to Dr. Robinson by the children of Mrs. Stewart's kindergarten school, that he might transmit it to the benefit of the "Fresh Air Fund."

Rev. Wm. A. Robinson, D. D., Middletown, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your esteemed favor of this day, enclosing a check for $10.00, to be applied to the Tribune Fresh Air Fund.

The success of this contribution, coming from the children of Mrs. Stewart's kindergarten school, makes it doubly appreciated; and I trust you will on the earliest possible occasion convey to them individually and collectively the assurance of our heartfelt thanks, together with the information that a few specially needy children from the heated and foul-smelling tenement districts of this city will be their beneficiaries to the extent of a two weeks' outing in some delightful country town, where they will have plenty to eat and drink, with good, clean beds and pure air, all of which is foreign to them in their city homes.

Very Gratefully, WILLARD PARSONS, Mgr., Tribune Fresh Air Fund, New York, July 20, 1895.
